CIVIL ACTION No. 6:20-cv-00453-ADA

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

DEFENDANT GOOGLE LLC'S OPPOSED MOTION TO STAY PENDING TRANSFER

Defendant Google LLC ("Google") respectfully requests a brief stay of all proceedings pending resolution of Google's Opposed Motion to Transfer Venue to the Northern District of California, ECF No. 25-1. As explained in Google's motion to transfer, this case involves a compelling set of facts that demonstrates that the Northern District of California is clearly a more convenient forum. The parties are currently engaged in venue discovery, and once venue discovery is completed the parties will finish the necessary briefing for the transfer motion.

"In determining whether a stay is proper, a district court should consider, among other factors, (1) the potential prejudice to the non-moving party; (2) the hardship and inequity to the moving party if the action is not stayed; and (3) judicial resources." Neodron Ltd. v. Dell Techs., 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 23309, *10 (W.D. Tex. Dec. 16, 2019) (Albright, J.) (citing Yeti Coolers, LLC v. Home Depot U.S.A., Inc., 1:17-cv-342, 2018 WL 2122868, at *1 (W.D. Tex. Jan. 8, 2018) (Pitman, J.)). Here, all relevant factors favor the stay.

Plaintiff Jenam Tech, LLC ("Jenam") cannot argue any prejudice because its desire for broad venue discovery from Google, and its delay of several weeks in serving that discovery, has substantially delayed briefing and a decision on the transfer motion. Further, there is no question that this case is in its infancy since Jenam only determined which patent claims it is asserting in December<sup>1</sup> and non-venue discovery has not yet begun. If this case is not stayed, Google will suffer unnecessary hardship from expending resources on invalidity contentions, discovery, and claim construction, which will be governed by different rules and procedures if this matter is transferred to another district and judge. A stay will also conserve judicial resources by avoiding the time-intensive tasks of a Markman hearing and claim construction order. Accordingly, all relevant factors favor a stay.

Moreover, the Federal Circuit has specified that district courts “must first address whether it is a proper and convenient venue before addressing any substantive portion of the case.” In re Nintendo Co., Ltd., 544 F. App’x 934, 941 (Fed. Cir. 2013); accord In re EMC Corp., 501 F. App’x 973, 975 (Fed. Cir. 2013) (stressing “the importance of addressing motions to transfer at the outset of litigation”); In re Horseshoe Entm’t, 337 F.3d 429, 433 (5th Cir. 2003) (“[The] motion [to transfer] should have taken a top priority in the handling of this case by the ... District Court.”); McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Polin, 429 F.2d 30, 30-31 (3d Cir. 1970) (explaining that a “district court should not burden itself with the merits of the action” until a venue challenge is decided). Thus, the pending transfer motion should take priority, and Google respectfully requests a short stay pending a decision on it.

<sup>1</sup> On December 4, 2020, Jenam finalized its selection of 65 asserted claims, as directed by the Court on August 28, 2020. On January 8, 2021, Jenam further narrowed its claims and stated that it is no longer asserting claims 25, 28, and 29 of the 9,923,995 patent.
